HON. C. W. CROSS CHOSEN AS LIBERAL CANDIDATE FOR EDMONTON

Alberta Ministers and Members of the House of Commons from Ontario Address Big Meeting—An Enthusiastic Gathering.

Robertson's hall was crowded to the doors last night at the Liberal nomination. Only one name was mentioned that of Hon. C. W. Cross, and it was received with an enthusiasm which indicates success in the approaching contest.

Excellent addresses were delivered by the candidate, Hon. Dr. DeVéber, Hon. W. T. Finlay, Hon. W. H. Cushing, P. H. McKenzie, M.P., and Geo. D. Grant, M.P. Mr. Grant was the speaker of the evening and well sustained the reputation which had preceded him here, that of being one of the best speakers among Ontario's contingent in the House of Commons.

The meeting was in every particular a most decided success and many tributes were justly paid to the Liberal candidate of this city, and he touched a responsive chord in the audience in his reference to the early struggles of Liberalism in the North-West.

President J. R. Boyle, of the Edmonton Liberal Association called the meeting to order at 8:30. He explained the purpose for which the meeting was held that of nominating a Liberal candidate, for the new constituency of Edmonton, for the provincial legislature. He expressed his satisfaction at the splendid gathering assembled and declared the meeting open for business.

Mr. James McGeorge moved the following resolution, which was seconded by Mr. W. A. Deyl:

"WHEREAS His Honor the Lieutenant-Governor has been pleased to call upon the Hon. A. C. Rutherford, as the first premier of our Province of Alberta, and he has chosen as his executive such tried and tried men of sterling ability and integrity as the Hon. W. T. Finlay, M.L.A., Hon. W. H. Cushing, Hon. C. W. Cross and the Hon. Dr. DeVéber.

"RESOLVED that we express our full confidence in the Cabinet as constituted, that we consider the government of the Province in efficient hands and pledge our support to the Hon. A. C. Rutherford and his colleagues."

The resolution was unanimously carried.

It was then moved by Mr. Webster and seconded by Mr. John McLeaman in brief speeches: "That we, the Liberals of the electoral district of Edmonton heartily endorse the platform of the Liberal party of this Province, which is based on the conviction that the intelligent opinion of the people is the true source of responsible government; that our representatives should be progressive legislators and hold responsible to the electorate for the proper management of the affairs of our new province, so that the welfare of the masses may be promoted."

The resolution was unanimously adopted.

The chairman then asked for nominations, when Mr. D. R. Fraser proposed the name of Hon. C. W. Cross, and the mention of the candidate's name was greeted with enthusiastic cheers. The nomination was seconded in a few well-chosen words by Mr. Geo. McLeod. The nomination was endorsed by a standing vote, and three hearty cheers and a tiger were given for Candidate Cross.

In accepting the nomination Mr. Cross said he did not think he could adequately thank the Liberals of this city for the nomination so heartily tendered him. He explained that the nomination tendered him in November last was for a different constituency. Great changes had taken place since then. He had been ready to do battle in this constituency in a bye-election at any time since his nomination. Had Mr. Haultain desired as much as he claimed, to get an expression of the opinions of the people here he could have done so quite easily, and had he done so, it was quite probable that Mr. Haultain would have found out that he didn't represent public opinion here as he claimed to.

Referring to the history of the Liberal party, he said that in the early days of the North-West Territories the Hon. Frank Oliver and Hon. Jas. H. Ross fought for the principles of responsible government in this western country just as the Liberals in the early days of Ontario struggled against the Family Compact.

He stated that the development of this Edmonton district was largely due to the assistance and efforts of Liberal governments. It was a Liberal government that built the first telegraph line into Edmonton. It was the administration of Hon. Alex. McKenzie that established the Mounted Police in the North West and gave the ballot to the people here in elections. It was Hon. George Brown who first advocated the purchase of the North-West Territories from the Hudson's Bay Company. The foresight of this purchase was seen now in the fact that a part of the property on Jasper avenue in the city of Edmonton was worth more money than the amount paid then for the remainder of the whole country.

In fact the whole prosperity of the west had been bound up in the effort and work of Liberal administrations.

Hon. Dr. DeVéber was then called upon. He stated that he would only speak briefly. He stated that a platform was generally the foundation of a structure, and upon this platform we were going to rear the structure of good government. It was only good things that were imitated, and the Conservatives had almost copied the Liberal platform at their Red Deer convention.

He dealt briefly with the school question and quoted Mr. Haultain's statement that were he (Haultain) dictator tomorrow he would have it (the present school law) re-enacted. The speaker regarded the present school law as perfectly satisfactory and he was pleased that the matter was finally settled and would not be a disturbing feature in the destiny of this great province.

Hon. W. T. Finlay, Minister of Agriculture, expressed his pleasure to be present at such a unanimous nomination of Hon. C. W. Cross. He regarded the school question as very satisfactorily settled. There was no complaint about the school law before the present time, and those who were complaining now were those who upheld the law before the autonomy bill was introduced. Liberalism stood for equal rights to all. He referred to the splendid and effective immigration policy of the present Liberal administration at Ottawa, and he thought the work of immigration could be much more satisfactorily carried on by the Dominion than by the provincial government. In conclusion, he said, in his public service he would endeavor to do his duty by the province of Alberta.

Hon. W. H. Cushing stated that he was proud to be present to do honor to the candidate nominated by this convention. He was proud to be present as the standard-bearer of Liberalism in Calgary. He was an old timer in the west, having reached Calgary before the C.P.R. He had experiences in politics in Ontario when a Liberal had practically to fight his way to the polls in order to record his vote. It is due to the Liberal party in Canada that we enjoy many of the privileges and liberties of today.

TRAIN STRUCK OPEN SWITCH

Padlock on Switch Had Been Hammered Off—List of the Injured

Montreal, Sept. 13.—Four people were seriously injured and many others hurt, an engine smashed to splinters and several cars thrown off the track by an open switch at Lachine. The switch was left open because it was caused with criminal intention and arrest may follow.

The injured are: Rev. T. O'Neil of St. George, who suffers from internal injuries; a man with a fractured shoulder; Mrs. G. Reoch, rendered unconscious; and a passenger whose name is unknown, right leg torn. The locomotive was going to Nominingue and was 600 feet from the station when it struck the open switch. The locomotive was thrown ten feet from the track and smashed to pieces. The engineer and fireman emerged from the wreck safe and sound. The switch lock was broken and the tie rod was broken and two coaches were picked off. After the accident it was found that the padlock on the switch had been hammered off and was found lying near the track.

WEDDINGS

MILLER-SPEERS

Barrie Examiner: The Barrie Presbyterian church was the scene of a very pretty wedding on Tuesday afternoon, the contracting parties being Miss Gertrude Speers, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Speers and Mr. James Miller of Edmonton. Rev. D. McLeod, D.D., pastor of the church performed the ceremony at half past two o'clock.

The bride looked very pretty in a gown of cream figured silk, trimmed with embroidered chiton lace. She wore the customary bridal veil and billets of the valley and carried a beautiful bouquet of white roses. Miss Daisy Patterson and Miss Susie Kennedy, the bridesmaids, were very becomingly gowned in champagne silk with trimmings of lace-over and carpeted pink roses. The groom was assisted by Mr. Roy Colley, of Winterston.

After the ceremony, the wedding party proceeded to the home of the bride's parents, 10 Worster street, where a dainty repast was served. Mr. and Mrs. Miller leaving on the evening train for a trip to Toronto, Hamilton, Buffalo and other cities before going to their home in Edmonton.

The bride was a valued member of the Presbyterian choir, an active church worker, and a great favorite with a large circle of friends, as was evidenced by the many beautiful gifts received.

Among the guests from a distance were Mrs. Sarah Colley and Roy Colley of Winterston, Iowa; Miss Ethel Miller, Avenue; Lester Miller, Longwood; J. W. Speers, Foo, Ont.; Thomas Speers, Toronto.

THOMPSON-PRENTICE Last evening the marriage of Mr. C. Thompson and Miss Margaret Prentice was celebrated in the Presbyterian church of this city. Rev. Dr. McLean officiated, assisted by Rev. Forbes of Fort Saskatchewan. The bride was given away by Dr. Braithwaite.

After the ceremony refreshments were served and a reception held in the residence of Mr. and Mrs. Colley and Evans, on the Chisholm Block, where good wishes were expressed for the future happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Thompson.

Mr. Thompson is on the staff of the Hudson's Bay Company's store, and Miss Prentice has been a nurse in the public hospital. Both parties are well and favorably known in the city. They are staying at the Windsor until their house is ready.

HASTINGS-SELLICK—At the home of Mr. G. Thompson in this city, on Saturday evening, Sept. 9th, Mr. F. W. Hastings, of Edmonton, and Miss Florence Sellick of Bon Accord.

The Story of Edmonton

By CHARLES LEWIS SHAW, in The Toronto Globe

Nothing possibly exemplified the commercial and political wisdom of the gentlemen adventurers of England trading into Hudson Bay more than the location of their trading posts scattered throughout British North America. From the Arctic circle to the forty-ninth parallel of latitude, from Labrador to the Pacific Ocean, with marvelous business instinct and far-seeing political acumen, the great Hudson's Bay Company planted its trading posts and supply depots at points not only most favorable for the fur trade and for the distribution of supplies, but also remarkably adapted for the control under its system of paternal government of the varied and far-flung elements that came within the peculiar jurisdiction of its organization.

Times have greatly changed since first the adventurous fur traders of North America, under the directing hand of the dashing Prince Rupert, the renowned cavalry leader of the great civil war of England, with the authority of a charter granted by the Merry Monarch, first built better than they knew posts throughout the Northern half of this continent, which for over two hundred years have been virtually the lighthouses of the progress of civilization and settlement throughout the great lone land of the west.

The headquarters of the Hudson's Bay Company has been for over a century Fort Garry, at the confluence of the Red and Assiniboine Rivers, and today on its site has risen Winnipeg, the metropolis of the West. Almost invariably whenever settlement has taken place throughout the Rupert's land of other days the centre of that settlement was the fort from whose flagstaff has waved for years a banner inscribed in bold capitals H. B. C.

Fort Garry, Fort William, Fort Selkirk, Fort Calgary, Fort Macleod, Prince Albert and Fort Edmonton are some of the names whose meanings a few years ago to the outside world were nothing more than trading posts of the great fur-trading company.

There was little of the artificial in the early days of the white man in the Canadian west. Nature ran an almost uninterrupted course, and the highways and centres were those in the natural order of things. The builders of the new west have learned well the lessons of the past, and there have been few efforts made by the politician or the railroad builder to do otherwise than follow the old trails made by the sagacious pathfinders of long ago.

Edmonton, the future capital of the new Province of Alberta, is an older site of trade and government than Ottawa, the capital of the Dominion. It was a place of more political importance at the time of the outbreak of the American revolution than the little settlement on the sand-sheltered bay now known as the city of Toronto.

The story of Edmonton is a long one. Much of it is buried in the archives of the Hudson's Bay Company, and many of its chapters are merely tradition handed down from campfire to campfire of Cree or Blackfoot, or told in the long winter nights of the northland in some isolated fort by some ancient trapper or trader. But throughout the tales and legends of the long ago there is always the recognition of Fort Edmonton as the most important point in the far west, secondary only in importance to Fort Garry. Today it is the centre of control of the enormous business of the Hudson's Bay Company on the North Saskatchewan, the Athabasca, the Peace and the Mackenzie Rivers and the country drained by these great streams. Within the last ten years Edmonton has been of secondary importance as the distributing point of the Hudson's Bay Company for the far north. It has become more, it is the centre of the newest, largest and most profitable agricultural region of the far west. The story of the bountifulness and the development of the fertile valley of the North Saskatchewan is told in the crop and immigration returns of the blue books. The long, long story of isolation, adventure and difficulties since its beginning until the railroad brought it within easy reach of the outer world will never be gathered.

"The history of Edmonton began with Frank Oliver," said an ardent admirer of the Minister of the Interior. "Before his time its story is buried in the mists of Hudson's Bay Company ledgers and legends and indian lore." Mr. Oliver's admirer was wrong. There is a chapter in Edmonton's history between the stories of battles between the two great Indian tribes, the Cree and the Blackfoot, fur-trading, buffalo-hunting, the warring of rival companies for supremacy and the inrush of settlers from Eastern Canada, Europe and the United States. Donald Ross, the uniformed page of Dr. Tait, the late Archbishop of Canterbury, the sailor before the mast, the participant in the fifties of last century in the mad rush for gold to the Cariboo in British Columbia and the pioneer seeker for the precious metal through the unknown passes of the Rockies to the Peace River, fabulous reports of whose richness having percolated through the snow-capped Rockies to the dispossessed seekers of the Cariboo mining camps—he probably is the first actual settler in Edmonton of pure white blood unconnected with the Hudson's Bay Company, and personally and financially is prominent in the life of the new western capital.

Interesting are the tales told by Mr. Ross, for beyond even the majority of old-timers he is not only representative of a disappearing type of pioneer days, but he is also the raconteur par excellence of the early days of the white settler on the upper North Saskatchewan as distinguished from the days of the "Company" and the redman.

"A few of us young fellows," said he (Mr. Ross is now a septuagenarian, whose tall figure and broad shoulders give evidence of his early athletic strength) "In the Cariboo country were among the many disappointed ones in the fifties. We had heard in the gossip of the camps and had gathered from the stories of guides and Indians that there was a great river on the other side of the mountains in a country kept as a great reservoir for the Hudson's Bay Company, where the yield of free gold to the pan was such that man had never known before. We had the fever of youth and the gold-seeker in our veins and a party of us made up our minds to cross the great divide and approach this unknown country, barred to some extent on the east by the difficulties placed in the way of far-flung settlement by the policy of the Hudson's Bay Company at that time. The difficulties and hardships we met with in crossing the mountains in those days, through passes travelled seldom by even the mountain Indians are an old story. We found gold on the Peace River, as you will find it on all mountain streams, but not in such quantities as we had imagined. For months we toiled at gold-washing, but eventually tired and drifted southward to St. Albert, then the most northerly mission of the Roman Catholic Church in America and then to Fort Edmonton. My comrades drifted into the moving life of the west, left the country, or died in the course of time, for I was the boy of the party.

In those days the Company, as the Hudson's Bay Company was always called, was everything to both white and red man. No more complete form of patriarchal government was ever instituted in the world's history than that of the Hudson's Bay Company. The Company was our law, our means of livelihood, and to many their religion. Never has a commercial corporation had such devoted loyalty from the life work of the officers and servants. Nowhere has a government been so absolute in effect than that of the rule of the great fur-trading corporation throughout nearly half a continent.

Brought up in the north of England, the lessons learned in practice on the flat beside the old Hudson's Bay Fort, which was searched for packages of garden seeds which had been forgotten or despised, as was the way with the Hudson's Bay people conservatively persuaded that the food of the country consisted only of fish, game, pemmican and bannock. For several years I managed the little farm of the Company, where part of Edmonton now stands. Around the fort or within a mile or two of it Hudson's Bay employees or ex-employees had formed a little settlement. At the time of the transfer of the country in 1869 or 1870 to the Canadian Government these people's titles to the land were recognized and considered in the subsequent surveys. That was the town of Edmonton of the older time. The beginning of Edmonton as a permanent trading post was over a hundred years ago. One fort had been erected several miles above the site of the present one, another several miles below, but in the troublous times of the Northwest Trading Company, both had been abandoned and the present site decided upon.

Verily, a strange position did this outpost of empire and trade hold in the great lone land of the west. It was for nearly half a century the most southerly of the Hudson's Bay posts in the far north, for the Blackfeet were the only Indians within its domain that the Company stood somewhat aloof from and treated with suspicion. It was in comparatively recent times that Fort Calgary was situated in the country of the Blackfeet and their cousins, the Piegan and Bloods.

The Saskatchewan River was the defined border of the country of the Crees, and southward as far as the Battle River was debatable land. At stated intervals large parties of Blackfeet would come north with all the paraphernalia of a war party, and send word across the quick-flowing river to the great "Ogeman," or chief of the fort that they desired to trade. From this source much of the best buffalo robes of the civilized world were obtained, for the farther north the buffalo were met with the heavier was their fur. Envoys would then be sent out along the trails to holla back any Crees from coming to the fort until business had been concluded with their bitter, hereditary enemies.

In the early days rum was an article of barter. Even in the times when the iron rule of the company was dominant much care and discretion had to be used in its sale, particularly with a war-like quasi-friendly race like the Blackfeet. At Fort Edmonton many of the old-timers remember a long, narrow passage leading past a small wicket, looking from an office in the palisaded fort, where the Blackfeet in the trading days with the southern Indians were each handed his modicum of well-watered rum. One man out, was allowed to enter the passage at a time, and the exit led him at the other end of the fort to a point near the river where he could easily enter a canoe and be ferried across to the Blackfoot camp on the other side.

This strained relationship between the Hudson's Bay Company and the powerful Blackfeet, the great buffalo-hunters of the plains, was on account of the friendship between the fur traders and the Crees, whom they hated with the ferocity of the North American savage, and the feeling was mutual.

"They are a treacherous, blood-thirsty lot," said an old Hudson's Bay factor with the prejudices of his class strong within him. "The only one believes there is any good in them is Father Lacombe, and it took him forty years to find it out."

At the time of the transfer, as the cessation to Canada of the Hudson's Bay

WHEN THE MIKASA BURNED

Consternation in Tokio at the Disaster to the Flag-Ship—May be Saved

Tokio, Sept. 13.—The disaster to the battleship Mikasa created great consternation here. The Mikasa flagship was endeared to the hearts of the people. The ship was at anchor in Haredo harbor when fire started at the base of the main mast at midnight and spread with great rapidity, exploding the after magazine an hour after the fire had been discovered. The Mikasa sank in shallow water and it is believed the ship can be repaired.

Rescue parties were sent from the various fire ships in the harbor, and there were heavy casualties among them. There were rumors current as to the cause of the fire. Some attribute it to an overcharge of electricity. Great relief was felt throughout Japan when it was learned that Admiral Togo was not on board at the time.

DEPARTMENTAL WORK

A visit to the top floor of the Empire block round the Public Works Department was getting their temporary offices in shape for business. Files of papers were being arranged and the current correspondence was being attended to. Speaking to Deputy Minister Stocks in reference to the department, he said:

"Something over fifty persons, permanent and temporary, were employed in the public works department in Regina. The few members of the staff transferred to Edmonton are an absolute necessity, owing to the technical nature of a good deal of the work in this department, and to the fact that this season's work has to be carried out upon practically the same lines as begun under the existing circumstances. In this Department at least, a very considerable number of appointments will have to be made in the very near future, or just as soon as possible after unpacking and sorting the files and records, which only reached Edmonton Monday morning."

Asked if any staff had yet been employed at Edmonton, he stated: "Not yet, as we really have nothing for them to do until our records and files arrive and even then we have not got very suitable quarters to work in, but have several applications, and will employ additional help as it is required, and postpone to work them a few expert engineers and typists. I expect to report within a few days, and other sections will bear future. I have no doubt but more office help will be required between this and the other Departments than it will be possible to procure in the city."

We expect to be very busy organizing and getting the work in hand again. There is sure to be more or less confusion for a few weeks, and we hope our many correspondents will realize this and exercise a little patience if their business is not promptly attended to. No doubt is being spared to get the work in hand again with the least possible delay, but such changes as are taking place at present must of necessity result in a certain amount of delay."

The other part of the same flat Mr. Geo. Harcourt, Deputy Minister of Agriculture, who is continuing his departmental affairs arranged, Mr. Harcourt said that most of the work in his department was now over for this year and that their attention would be directed to preparation for the work of 1906. He said he was at present assisted by two clerks so that other appointments would require to be made as the real work of the department began.

CANADIAN-JAP TREATY

WILL SOON BE COMPLETE

Negotiations Under Way For Some Time to Secure "Favored Nation" Treaty

Ottawa, Sept. 13.—Negotiations by Canada for a trade treaty with Japan are well advanced and before long the Dominion will be enjoying the advantages of the Japanese low tariff. In 1897 Great Britain made a treaty with Japan, at that time Canada did not become party to it. Recently the Dominion asked to be allowed to become a party to the treaty. The correspondence is sufficiently advanced to make it pretty certain that this will be granted. Japan has two tariffs, a high and low and Canada at present comes under the high tariff.

DR. CLARK MAY RUN

Albertan: Dr. Clarke of Olds, it is understood, will run as an independent candidate for the riding of Rosebud. He is a staunch Liberal and came within two or three of carrying the Liberal convention. The people of Olds of both parties insist upon his candidature. He is a very able man and an excellent speaker.

A THIRD CANDIDATE FOR GLEICHEN

Calgary Albertan: An Alberta representative called on C. W. Peterson yesterday with reference to his rumored candidature in the Gleichen electoral district on an independent platform. When asked whether he was in a position to confirm the report, Mr. Peterson made the following statement:

"I have been urged for some time by friends holding views similar to my own, to contest Gleichen as an independent representative of the farming and ranching element. I considered, however, that the sitting member, although not a farmer had represented the country interests efficiently and faithfully and I consequently refused to entertain the proposal. The action of the recent Conservative convention, however, has materially changed the complexion of things and you may say now, that in the absence of a candidate in the district of Gleichen whom we can conscientiously support and who would properly represent the constituency, I am definitely and emphatically in the field as an independent candidate."

STARTED THE CAMPAIGN

Cochrane, Alta., Sept. 8.—The electoral campaign in the district of Banff was opened here this evening, a meeting in the Conservative interest being held in the Orange Hall. The speakers were Dr. Brett, M. S. McCarthy, M.P., and the Liberal candidate, Mr. Fisher. An audience of about one hundred ladies and gentlemen gathered, mostly of the Liberal persuasion, if one should judge by the reception of the speakers.

Mr. McCarthy's address was a lengthy argumentative review of various matters that came up for discussion at the last session of the Dominion House.

Mr. Fisher was then called on but objected to speaking before the Conservative candidate, whose meeting it was, and the audience upheld him in his objection.

Dr. Brett drew from the Conservative platform most of the material of his speech and therefore had practically nothing new to say. When it is remembered that some of its clauses were deeply repugnant to the Doctor at the "convention" at Red Deer, it is understood why his own speech lacked the usual vim. Some irrelevant remarks on the mange question were made.

Mr. Fisher was received with loud cheers. He had not been in the habit of calling himself an orator and his friends were agreeably surprised at his skill as a debater. Many of his remarks cut deep and the opposition speakers visibly winced. Dr. Brett's career in the assembly was reviewed and his incompetency in the past clearly shown. The story of the Anthracite Head deal provoked roars of laughter at the Doctor's expense, and the gross ignorance and carelessness shown by him in the irrigation ditch embroilie were pointed out. Mr. Fisher took pains to show that the Conservatives were the first to declare for a party fight, and as for himself he was ready now as in the past to serve in the new legislature all parties alike to the best of his ability.

Dr. Brett and M. S. McCarthy replied at length. The latter explained that he voted against the C.P.R. exemption resolution of Mr. Scott because Sir Wilfrid Laurier was opposed to it. His confessions re the "Salary Grab" were received in cold silence.

The president of the Conservative association by mistake called for three cheers for Mr. Fisher, which were given with a will.

Both candidates formally announced their candidature.

—Referring to the Inaugural celebration the Red Deer Advocate says: A great day was this, we did not hear of an accident. It has been our duty and privilege to take part in many important functions, and to witness many more, but we do not think we ever were present upon an occasion of the kind, when everything passed off so pleasantly and so perfectly. We congratulate the mayor and corporation and other members of the reception committee, the indefatigable secretary and all concerned upon the great success of the day, and wish that the many visitors to this progressive city were delighted with the efforts made to impress and please them.

The Gillette Razor

To men who are accustomed to shave themselves, we would recommend the little ever-ready Gillette Razor. While this is one of what is generally called

Safety Razors

It is entirely different from the ordinary Safety, for with the Gillette you have no honing or stropping to do, as the Razor is always ready for use. The blade that is in the Razor when you buy it, is good for not less than ten shaves, and to a man who has an ordinary delicate, or fine beard it will shave thirty times without stropping; then you simply remove that blade and put in a new one, or in other words, throw the old blade away, not trying to renew its edge, but put in a new blade, thus you start again with a new Razor. Twelve blades go with each Razor, and these twelve blades are good for not less than 120 shaves without stropping. The Razor is always ready. Then when the blades become dull, and you throw them away, you buy a new set of blades for $1.00, which means again not less than 120 shaves. No matter if you are on the road or in a jolting conveyance of any kind, the Razor is always ready for use. You cannot cut yourself if you try.

We are the only people in this northern country who have these Razors, and as we have seen them work and know their capabilities we can recommend them without the slightest hesitation.

title to the Manitoba and Northwest lands is always called by the pioneers of the West. Edmonton was simply an important trading post of the Hudson's Bay Company with a scattered settlement made up of half-breeds, who were either employees or quasi-employees of the Company, a few white men and their half-breed wives, a small free-trader or two, for the company tolerated little rivalry, and a half a dozen members of the flatsman and jetsom of western frontier life. Rev. Geo. McDougall, the pioneer Protestant missionary of the far west, and father of the well-known author-missionary Rev. John McDougall of Morley, made Edmonton his home for a time, and the members of his family married into the small but powerful Hudson's Bay circle.

The early history of Edmonton revolves, as it does in that of the older nations of the world, about the personality of the chief ruler, and many are the stories of the prowess of the chief factors of the early days. There is a tragic story of a Grant, the treacherous ruthless tyrant of a district larger than a German principality. Thremust always be a tyrant in traditional lore. There is the story of the Government of Sinclair, whose family is scattered throughout the Hudson's Bay forts of frozen north, and of Christy, part of whose family made their homes in Brockville, on the St. Lawrence, a favorite spot for the ex-officers of the Hudson's Bay Company of long ago.

The distributing point of supplies for the great Mackenzie basin, the Peace River and Athabasca forts, and for the small posts scattered over plain and mountain, Edmonton was also the stopping point for the adventurous hunter and traveller from the east. Lord Milton speaks kindly of it in his published diary, and Col. (now Sir William) Butler devotes a chapter of his charming volume, "The Great Lone Land," to Edmonton and its story.

The modern history of Edmonton begins with the advent in the seventies of the late Wm. Hardisty, a brother-in-law to Lord Strathcona, and afterwards a Dominion Senator, as chief factor of the Hudson's Bay Company, and Frank Oliver, the future Minister of the Interior, as editor, farmer and freighter, and the location of a division of the North-West Mounted Police twenty miles away.

To the majority of people it is a matter of surprise that the headquarters of the northern division of the Mounties was placed at Fort Saskatchewan, at that time a houseless stretch of prairie, instead of Edmonton. It is merely evidence of the inevitable clash, slight though it was, between the old and new order of things. Edmonton was the place of paramount importance in the eyes of the Hudson's Bay Company's officers of the west. There the company's influence was unquestionably the prevailing one. And so the chief factor talked at the time to Colonel Jarvis commanding the Mounties in the district, with instructions to locate a fort and barracks on the North Saskatchewan of economic and strategic advantage. The meeting of the characteristic representatives of the old and new conditions, of the old-time civilian ruler and the new militarist in the British army resulted in mutual antagonism—and Fort Saskatchewan was made the headquarters of the North-West Mounted Police for the district.

But the business tide of a century could not be changed by an act of offended importance, and Fort Edmonton continued to be the market of the settlement that was slowly and surely growing as its attractiveness came more and more to the ears of the outside world. Much of this advertisement; in fact, nearly the whole of it, was due to the Edmonton Bulletin, which soon became through Mr. Oliver's efforts a regular periodical. Its first numbers were sometimes no larger than a sheet of foot-long paper, and for years the most unromantic and sincere exponent of the western public opinion wielded the greatest popular influence in the far west as a newspaper 12 by 16 inches in size.

At the time of the North-West rebellion, Edmonton was a point of great strategical importance and also of considerable size, as one of the most populous French half-breed settlements in the Canadian west is only ten miles away—St. Albert. The rebellion was a blessing in disguise for Edmonton at least. From various causes the development of the West had remained at a standstill, and immigration was a disappointment. The mercantile and business part of the little western hamlet on the banks of the Saskatchewan suffered seriously from the hardness of the times, and ruin stared many in the face. The rebellion came with the demand by the Government for supplies for the little armies. The Edmonton merchants, traders and farmers sold out and had empty stores and barns, but fat pocket-books.

It was a free and easy neighborly life that was lived in Edmonton in the eighties. There was little that ripples the easy current of the lives of the people two hundred miles from a railroad with a mail service twice a week by stage.

The arrival of a stranger was a matter of comment over the countryside as large as England. The arrival of a marriageable young lady of presentable charms created a sensation. The mother tongue of half the people of Edmonton at that time was English, about one-quarter French and the other quarter Cree. Many of the old-timers spoke the whole three with equal facility. There were no racial or religious disputes or distinctions in the social coming and going of the sparsely-settled country-side. Partisanship had little opportunity along historic lines, and many of Frank Oliver's strongest supporters at the present time are men whose political predilections were true-blue Tory.

Much of the good feeling and absence of racial and religious rancor in the Edmonton district is undoubtedly due to the wisdom and moderation of the religious leaders of the early days—Father Lacombe, Father Ledet, Rev. Prof. Baird of Manitoba University, who was the first Presbyterian minister at Edmonton, and his successor, the present minister, Rev. D. G. McQueen, and Rev. Dr. Newton, the Anglican clergyman, but more probably is due to Frank Oliver and the Edmonton Bulletin.

"We always know where Frank is" was the frequent assertion of the Edmontonian of the early day. "He is pronounced and straightforward in his opinions, and he is right or wrong, honest in his opinion."

With the advent of the Calgary & Edmonton Railway fifteen years ago came a great change, and with the great crush of settlers a few years later a greater, and Edmonton sprang from an isolated settlement to being the town of supply of a thickly-settled district. Its population jumped from seven hundred to nearly seven thousand at the present time, with a strong possibility of being the capital of one of the most attractive and productive provinces of the great Dominion.

There is quite a change since Donald Ross came south from the Peace River and Frank Oliver drove the express, with his printing press, on the primitive ferry that crossed the Saskatchewan at the old Hudson's Bay fort.

Calgary Herald: The mayor received a wire this morning from Sir Frederick Borden, Minister of Militia, stating that he would be pleased to stop off a day in Calgary on his return from the coast. He will arrive here on September 28, and leave next day. He will be driven around by the city fathers and the 13th Regiment will give a parade for his inspection.

Lethbridge News: The Saskatchewan inauguration ceremonies are said to have favored strongly of snobbery, instead of giving the assembled multitudes an opportunity of hearing Sir Wilfrid Laurier and other distinguished visitors as was done at Edmonton, only those who were directly connected with the swearing in of the new Lieutenant-Governor were allowed to speak. The idea being to confine this part of the function for a few invited guests down at the hotel, don't you know. Sir Wilfrid saw through the little scheme and handed the world's aristocrats a very polite rebuke by rising in response to the clamorings of the people for a speech from him, and saying "Ladies and gentlemen, I am a low-bred citizen and the law here today is that shall not speak."

DIED.

Brown—Edmonton, Saturday, September 9, 1905. Winifred Dorothy, the baby daughter of Ernest and Molly Brown, aged 7 months and 17 days.

He would endeavor to do his best in the contest in Calgary—and had good hopes of a victory there for the new government of Alberta.

Mr. P. H. McKenzie, M.P., for South Bruce, was then introduced to the audience. He expressed his pleasure at being able to attend this meeting. He was making a trip through the west and was delighted with what he was able to see and hear. He referred to the time at Ottawa during the debate on the autonomy bill some Conservatives were changing the Liberals to open a seat anywhere. Edmonton was opened, and when Hon. Frank Oliver was elected by acclamation the Conservatives said the verdict was not conclusive as this district was mostly peopled by foreigners. He came up to see if this was true and he was pleased to find it just as he knew it was to find before him as intelligent an audience as he ever met.

So far as the school question was concerned the government was giving to these provinces the school law they had passed themselves and which had been satisfactory.

The work of Sir Wilfrid Laurier had been devoted to harmonizing the two great races which form the citizenship of Canada, and it was his determination to settle this question here satisfactorily and for all time. Questions of this kind must always be more or less of a compromise.

The speaker believed in party government, he believed the success of an administration was at least partially made by a good strong opposition.

In conclusion he expressed the opinion that Edmonton had a promising future. The natural resources of the surrounding country were simply magnificent. The citizens of Edmonton were showing great confidence in the future of their city, as evidenced by their public works and splendid buildings.

Mr. Geo. D. Grant, M.P., for North Ontario, was then introduced to the audience as the man who defeated Hon. Geo. E. Foster. Mr. Grant expressed his pleasure at being present at this Liberal meeting. He regarded the repeated election of Hon. Frank Oliver in this constituency as excellent evidence of the intelligence of the electors of this constituency despite the statements to the contrary. He then paid a tribute to the minister of the interior as one of the ablest, most fearless and most independent politicians in Canada. He referred to Edmonton as not only the provincial, but the permanent capital of this province.

He thought this city had good reason to be proud of its members-to-be, Hon. C. W. Cross and he confidently expected Edmonton to give Mr. Cross as large a majority as it gave Mr. Oliver on November 3 last.

As a representative from Ontario he wished to thank the people of this district for their election of Mr. Oliver by acclamation last spring, which election played no mean part in helping to secure victories in the bye-elections of North Oxford and London for toleration and sanity in Canadian politics.

He stated that this provincial contest was of more than provincial interest, it being watched from all parts of the Dominion.

He referred to Mr. W. F. McLean's statements at Calgary—that the people of these new provinces are shackled and maimed. He, the speaker, had been in the provinces for a short time and he had heard no complaint about shackles or manacles. He was now more convinced than ever that the school question was agitated more in the province of Ontario than in these new provinces.

He considered that no greater crime could be committed against these two provinces than the stirring up of this school question again, and he confidently expected that the quietus would be put upon such efforts by the election of two Liberal governments in these provinces.

He referred to the fact that the growth of the west began with the advent of the Liberal party to power in Canada. Since his present visit to the west he was more than ever impressed with the need for further development in this part of Canada.

He openly discussed the tariff question and favored the maintenance of a moderate tariff as against a high protective one.

In closing he expressed the opinion that Alberta would be carried for Liberalism; there would be planted in this grand province the old sound principles of the Liberal party and done so much for the establishment of Democracy in this country.

He concluded by expressing the opinion that Edmonton could be depended upon to do her duty for the Liberal party in the approaching contest.

The meeting closed with three rousing cheers for Hon. C. W. Cross, the Liberal candidate.
